

Career Summary

October 2018 –	Deputy Director, Head of Asylum and Family Policy Home Office
Nov 2016 – October 2018	Deputy Director, Welfare and Home Affairs Prime Minister’s Implementation Group, Cabinet Office
Feb 2014 – Nov 2016	Deputy Director, Head of policing powers unit Home Office
Sept 2011 – Jan 2014	Head of Police Transparency Police Transparency Unit, Home Office
Feb 2010 – Sept 2011	G6 Head of Neighbourhood Policing Community Safety Directorate, Home Office

Previous experience:

Based initially in the Department of Health following release from university, working on diverse policy areas including NHS fraud, hospital staff security and access to fertility treatment; I have spent the last 13 years focusing on reforming public services via inspection, policy and legislative levers.

Education:

October 1996 – October 1999	Brunel University: PhD Law Thesis: The Criminalisation of Motherhood – Review of court rulings relating to the conflict of rights between pregnant women and their foetuses
October 1995 – June 1996	Cambridge University: M.Phil Criminology Thesis: Imprisoning women to protect foetal wellbeing
October 1994 – October 1995	Middlesex University: M.A. Criminology and Deviance Thesis: The treatment of HIV+ inmates
October 1990 – October 1994	Surrey University: B.Sc. Applied Sociology Dissertation: Ethnic minority recruitment in the criminal justice system

Outside of work:

I am on the PTA at my daughter’s school and I regularly compete in long-distance running and endurance events. There’s little time to squeeze much more in.
